

Parent Story - Reverend Dan Scott

Rev Dan Scott has provided exemplary support to Ranelagh Primary School. His contributions have significantly enriched the spiritual and educational life of our school community. He has taken an active role in leading a range of assemblies, tailored thoughtfully for both Key Stage 1 and Key Stage 2 students, culminating in a memorable whole school assembly. His engaging approach includes the use of artefacts and props, making the sessions both visually stimulating and interactive.

Furthermore, he is always available to support children with their questions, making him an invaluable asset to Ranelagh Primary School.

My Story as a Parent at Ranelagh Primary School

I have 2 children at the school and we love being part of the Ranelagh community. My children gain so much by being part of such a friendly, welcoming and inclusive school that genuinely puts its values of care for the whole child into action each and every day.

Highlights for me include the wonderful Hot Chocolate mornings in the playground where everyone gets together and there's a real sense of joy at the start of the day. And of course the incredible end of term performances, which always leave me emotional as I reflect on the way the talents and expression of everyone at the school is valued together, and the children's care and understanding for one another is so obviously shown.

I love playing my part in the life of the school and trust, whether coming in to lead assemblies in my role as a vicar of a local church, and also as governor at North Beckton, another school in the trust, and sitting on the Curriculum and Standards committee for the whole trust. It's always inspiring to see the dedication of teachers and other staff across all of TTLT to give the best possible experiences to their children and to work collaboratively to share good practice and learning together.

Thank you to ALL the staff of Ranelagh for making this school such a precious place!
